LIBRARY BILL IS RE-INTRODUCED

The library demonstration bill, with some improvements, was re-introduced in the House and Senate at Washington Wednesday. Last year the bill passed the Senate but failed to reach the House floor for a vote in the jam of legislation at the end of the session.

Known now as HR 874 and S 130, the bill has two new features—an increase from $25,000 to $40,000 in the basic amount to be given each state by the federal government for the library demonstration project, and a new item of $140,000 to be used to train the demonstration librarians.

The measure, which last year had the support of a number of local and county organizations, was sponsored in the House by Rep. Madden (D-Ind.) and in the Senate by Senator Douglas of Illinois in addition to the original sponsors, Sens. Hill and Aiken.

Word that the measure is again before Congress was received here today by John H. Knickerbocker, member of the federal relations committee of the American Library association and chairman of the state association's committee on federal relations.

Thomas said, however, that repeal of the Taft-Hartley law will call for enactment of other new labor legislation. He noted that the President, in his state of the union message asking for repeal, also "called for other legislation."

Communists Break Lull In China War; Shell Tientsin

By HAROLD K. MILKS

Nanking, Jan. 6 (AP)—Communist troops, turning a deaf ear to Nationalist peace pleas, tonight reportedly poured shot and shell into besieged Tientsin in the north and into encircled government armies southwest of Suchow.

The firing broke a two weeks' lull. Peace overtures, including a message from President Chiang Kai-shek at year's end offering to negotiate "if the Communists really are sincere," had flooded the country.

The latest was made by the Peiping city council which voted to ask Communists surrounding that city for terms. The North China commander, Gen. Fu Tso-yi, gave permission for an air drop of the Peiping peace plea. He has been rumored seeking a separate settlement in the North China war.

Nanking sources heard that Red troops commenced shelling Gen. Tu Li-ming's surrounded armies southwest of Suchow from two sides after vocal barrages from loudspeakers failed to persuade the Nationalists to surrender.

The independent Nanking People's Daily said that Gen. Sun Yuan-liang, commander of the 16th Army Group under General Tu, had reached the Honan province temporary capital of Hsiyang on January 4 after passing through the Communist lines in disguise. The newspaper said General Sun reported the encircled troops, numbering between 150,000 and 250,000, had eaten all of their horses and other animals and that hundreds of men were deserting General Tu.

This account was in contrast with the statement of Government Military Spokesman Teng Wen-yi who said General Sun and "some of his men" broke the encirclement and reached Hsiyang.

Clear weather today, despite the bitter cold, enabled planes to resume dropping food and supplies to General Tu. However, most military sources here expected Tu to surrender to the Reds within a few days.

Teng added that he knew of no Government official who had been authorized to request mediation of the Big Four or any single power in China's civil war. The report had been published in Nanking and elsewhere.

It appeared that Chiang's peace message was likely to have one result—increasing pressure throughout the nation for peace.

News Collected At Random

The borough council's proposal to place traffic lights in Center square is not receiving much support in the community. Most people we have talked with from on the idea of the "stop-and-go" proposition in that area.

A number of years ago town council experimented with traffic lights in the square but soon removed them because they did not accomplish anything except to "jam" traffic.

Members of council should give this question much serious consideration before reaching a final decision. It would be far better to place the other traffic lights and observe the effect of traffic regulation through the square before placing them in that area.

James M. Cowan once wrote: "Work is man's great function. He is nothing, he can do nothing, he can achieve nothing, fulfill nothing, without working. If you are poor—work. If you are rich—continue working. If you are burdened with seemingly unfair responsibilities—work. If you are happy, keep right on working. Idleness gives room for doubts and fears. If disappointments come—work. If your health is threatened—work. When faith falters—work. When dreams are shattered and hope seems dead—work. Work as if your life were in peril. It really is. No matter what ails you—work. Work faithfully—work with faith. Work is the greatest remedy available for both mental and physical afflictions."

DUFF OPPOSES SALES TAX PLAN

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff today turned thumbs down on a proposal for a sales tax for schools and municipalities. At the same time he indicated it may be needed in the future to finance a $500,000,000 soldiers' bonus.

"If we use up everything, how is the state going to finance the soldiers' bonus?" Duff told newsmen.

He made the comment after declaring he was going to stand on the tax recommendations he has already made to the 1949 legislature.

They called for continuance of the present state taxes without change except for an increase in the gas tax. He called for a one or two cent boost in the gas tax depending on whether an authority is established to build the largest bridge and road projects.

The Governor declined at this time to go into details on how he thinks the bonus should be financed, but he did say: "It would seem to me that good housekeeping would indicate it is imperatively necessary that very large reserves be maintained if the tremendous obligation of that vast new sum of money is to be met."

Asked if he meant that if a sales tax were tied up for one purpose such as schools that it could not be used to finance a bonus, he replied: "That's right."

Transport Crashes, Burns In Maryland

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—A two-engine transport crashed and burned today in nearby Maryland, killing at least one of the two crewmen reported to be aboard.

The DC-3, a non-scheduled carrier, was en route from Raleigh, N. C., to Boston when it plunged to earth near Brandywine, about 200 miles east of the capital. The crash occurred at 8:10 a. m., EST, about two hours after the ship left Raleigh.

The Civil Aeronautics administration said one body had been recovered from the wreckage. Another crewman was believed to be aboard, CAA reported. The pilot was tentatively identified as a man named Morrill.

CAA said its records showed the ship was operated by Coastal Carriers, Inc., owned by Emanuel Silberner of Newark, N. J.

May Seek More Power For Truman

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—A bill to give President Truman the power he asked to boost the output of scarce steel with government money may be offered to the Senate within a week.

Democratic informants who asked anonymity reported today that Senators O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) and Murray (D-Mont.) are expected to sponsor the measure. Murray already has urged government entry into the steel business if milder measures fail. O'Mahoney heads the Senate-House economic committee.

The President, in his state of the union message yesterday, asked for authority to lend construction funds to steel corporations if Congress decides that the industry's own expansion plans are inadequate.

If that doesn't do the job, Mr. Truman said, Congress should authorize the government to build steel mills itself.

Political Storm Confronts Bowles

Hartford, Conn., Jan. 6 (AP)—Political storm warnings were flying today as Chester Bowles began his administration as Connecticut's 74th governor.

A partisan dispute in the politically-divided Legislature delayed his inauguration for more than four hours yesterday—and the reaction to his inaugural message indicated that more trouble lay ahead.

The war-time OPA administrator, first Democrat elected governor in eight years, made a bid for peace in his first appearance before the legislators.

A truce in party rivalries, he said, was essential to carry through what he called "a Connecticut good neighbor program on a statewide scale."

Find Couple Dead In Gas-filled Room

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—A middle-aged man and woman were found dead in a gas-filled third-floor room here yesterday.

Police identified the couple as Lloyd Ayleshire, 55, and Mrs. Cecilia McGuire, 50, occupants of a rooming house.

John Collins, owner of the house, told police he smelled gas when he returned home at 3:30 p. m. He said he traced the odor to Mrs. McGuire's room, then called the police.

Police found Mrs. McGuire sitting in a chair and Ayleshire stretched across a bed. Both were fully clothed. Physicians at Temple University hospital said they apparently had been dead about eight hours.

The need for a waterproof material around bathroom showers, which first became popular in the United States after World War I, greatly spurred clay tile production and sales.

CLUB TO LOSE ARMY SUPPORT

Berlin, Jan. 6 (AP)—The army gave the Harnack House club an ultimatum today—stop snubbing GIs or else.

Maj. Gen. George Hays, U. S. deputy commander in Germany, gave the swank officer-civilian club a broad hint it would lose the use of federal funds if it persisted in trying to keep out enlisted men as guests.

A faction which wants to keep out the lowly GI promptly toyed with the idea of reorganizing Harnack House as a private club, but D. C. Demartin of Hamden, Conn., a board member who opposes this idea, said it would be impractical from a money standpoint.

The issue of admitting GIs, smoldering for some time, burst into flame recently when constabulary officers, leading a fight to bar the enlisted men, won their point in a meeting attended by only a fourth of the members. Signs were posted barring GIs.

Then the fight broke out in the open, and the club's board removed the signs pending a final decision.

Gen. Hays called in the club's board and told the members regulations forbid discrimination where federal funds are used as subsidy.

The anti-GI faction, however, demanded that the full membership vote on whether enlisted men should be barred. The club has 400 officers and 700 civilians as members.

GOP TO BATTLE WELFARE PLANS

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Mingled fear and favor was the general Congressional reaction today to President Truman's social welfare proposals in his annual message to the new Congress.

On the basis of comment from senators and representatives it was difficult to predict how far the Democratic-controlled Congress would go on Mr. Truman's request for a system of prepaid medical health insurance.

2. Expansion of old-age insurance.

3. Federal aid to education.

But Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, the President's head man in the House, sized up the situation generally when he said: "On some of the domestic issues there will be division."

The sharpest division appeared likely on the health program, which the American Medical Association has been fighting and which Republicans assailed generally as an approach toward state Socialism.

There were prospects, too, for a

A fifteen-minute organ recital by Mrs. Sarah Plunkert preceded the ceremony, followed by the playing of the traditional wedding march.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The double ring ceremony was performed by her pastor, the Rev. J. Keller Brantley, assisted by the Rev. Charles Rice.

The flower girl was Miss Anna Mae Stair, sister of the bride. Robert Flickinger, cousin of the bride, and Sterling Snader, friend of the couple, served as ushers.

A reception followed with approximately 100 guests present. The bride and groom cut the three-tier cake decorated with miniature bride and groom.

The occasion also marked the 22nd wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. The bride and groom left on a short wedding trip following the reception. Upon their return they will reside at the home of the bride's parents. Both are employed at the Windsor Shoe company, Littlestown.

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff said today there is no significance whatsoever in the fact that he has not yet set the nomination of Charles C. McGovern, Liquor Board member, to the Senate.

The Governor at the same time declined to comment on published reports that McGovern yesterday offered to resign his Liquor Board post and that it was refused by Duff.

good fight on federal aid to education. It was bottled up in the 80th Congress on the ground it meant control of local school systems by Washington.

Of the three major points in the social program, the one likely to receive the least battering is expansion of old-age insurance.

Republicans are known to be working on a set of statistics designed to show that the social program in all its aspects would cost more than the country can afford and would push the national economy to the brink of ruin.

Emmitsburg PTA MEETING HELD TUESDAY

The regular monthly meeting of the PTA of St. Joseph's high school was held Tuesday evening.

In the absence of the president, Guy A. Baker, the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Prof. Dominic Greco. The opening prayer was recited by him. The minutes of the December meeting were read and approved. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Thornton Rodgers, showing a balance on hand of $639.35. After discussion the PTA voted to donate the money for the athletic association to buy ten uniforms. At the same time a motion was passed that the PTA would also donate the money to purchase uniforms for the girls' Athletic club of St. Joseph's. The uniform to be worn by the boys was shown to the PTA by several boys of the high school. These suits will be left at the school for use year after year.

The child was tossed from a second-story window onto the frozen ground at the height of the fire. All other persons on the second floor burned to death.

Free Elections Are Promised Indonesia

The Hague, Jan. 6 (AP)—Queen Juliana expressed hope today that an Indonesian federal government will be established within a few weeks as a step toward formation of a sovereign United States of Indonesia. Free elections were pledged "as soon as circumstances permit."

The queen told the Dutch in a broadcast the newly concluded military action in Indonesian Republic territory "was in no way to go back on the pledges which have been solemnly given by my mother (former Queen Wilhelmina) and by The Netherlands people as a whole."

Referring to the action in which Dutch troops overran all major territorial objectives of the Indonesian Republic in a 17-day campaign, Queen Juliana said: "From the beginning of my reign (last September), I have always striven for the complete fulfillment of the promises given by my mother to cooperate toward securing peace, happiness and prosperity for the peoples of Indonesia under a sovereign government of their own."

Urges Publicity For Industrial Harmony

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—James L. McDevitt, state AFL president, today urged newspaper editors to play up employer-worker harmony in their headlines as much as labor disputes. "Many disputes are prolonged by misleading statements," McDevitt said. "Such publicity usually results in name-calling and charges that develop breaches in employer-worker that takes years to heal."

He emphasized that "labor welcomes constructive criticism of its dealings with employers and any other matters which should be given full public view, but the press during the war and to the present time has given the public the conception that labor-employer bargaining is one continuous conflict."

COMPLETE GOP POLICY GROUP

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Republican senators today named one of their "young Turks" and the only woman senator to the powerful GOP policy committee.

They are Senators Ives of New York and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine. Ives was one of those who led an unsuccessful revolt against continuing Senator Taft of Ohio as chairman of the policy group. Taft was re-elected as chairman on Monday.

The membership of the policy committee was completed at a meeting of all Republican senators.

Senator Milliken of Colorado, chairman of the Republican conference, announced the action. He told reporters that all was peace and harmony at the session behind closed doors.

Tear Gas Bomb In Safe Routs Robbers

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—The person or persons who broke into the Quaker City Coffee mills plant early today found a warning on the safe door:

"This safe is protected by tear gas."

That didn't bother the intruders, who hammered a hole in the side and:

Out hissed the tear gas. When the manager opened the office, he found it filled with tear gas fumes. He summoned police.

The safe was cracked but there was nothing missing — except the would-be robbers.

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—President Truman's new education, health and housing programs will account for less than $500,000,000 of his nearly $42,000,000,000 budget for fiscal 1950. Administration officials said today.

The trio constitute key items in the "re-new Deal" program Mr. Truman set out in his Presidential campaign and hammered home to the friendly 81st Congress in his State of the Union address yesterday.

YORK SPRINGS JOINS SCHOOL GRID CIRCUIT

The Little Four Football conference was expanded to seven teams and renamed the Little Seven conference with the admission of three new teams — Stewartstown, York Springs, and Washington Township — at a meeting of conference officials Wednesday evening in the York YMCA.

The three new high school members of the circuit will join with the four charter members, Dallas, Littleton, East Berlin and New Freedom, in rounding out the enlarged conference group.

In contrast to previous years when the four teams met each other twice on a home-and-home basis, it planned to have the teams play each other once during the 1949 grid season, making a total of six league contests for each member. A tentative schedule was adopted at last night's session and the conference will launch its 1949 season Saturday, Sept. 24.

Manchester high school was also represented at the meeting and manifested interest in entering the conference either for the approaching season or next year. Officials of the Manchester school were given until Feb. 15 to decide upon their course of action. In the event that school should accept the eighth berth in the group, the team drawing a bye in the adopted schedule would draw Manchester as its opponent.

Groundwork for possible further expansion in the coming years was laid at Wednesday night's meeting, when delegates of Spring Grove and Dillsburg high schools and Scotland Orphanage attended the session and professed interest in joining the football league within the next several years.

Wednesday night's meeting was in charge of Russell W. Hare of New Freedom, vice president of the conference.

PROPOSE GRID RULE CHANGES

San Francisco, Jan. 6 (AP)—Football rule changes aimed at liberalizing free substitution, while curbing "bench quarterbacking," were proposed to the National Collegiate Athletic Association today.

The advisory rules committee of the American Football Coaches' Association recommended that free substitutions be permitted between plays when possession of the ball changes from one team to the other, as well as when time is called out. A coach at present may send in players in batches (The so-called "Platoon" system) only when time has been called.

Also recommended by the advisory committee was elimination of the present rule permitting substitution of a man after every play while the clock is running.

"Such a change would help eliminate quarterbacking from the bench," commented Coach Tuss McLaughry of Dartmouth, a member of the committee. The change would permit substitution of a player only when time has been called.

Other rules changes advocated by the advisory committee included: Reinstatement of the pre-1942 rule permitting a "reverse center"—one who faces his own backfield; to make ineligible to receive a forward pass a back stationed close enough to the center to receive a hand-to-hand exchange of the ball; declare a forward pass grounded behind the goal line of the offensive team to be a down instead of a safety thus encouraging more goal line passing, and give the receiving team the option of running the ball out of the end zone on a kick from scrimmage, the same as on a free kick or kickoff.

Champion Eagles Are On The Block

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Philadelphia Eagles, who lost $32,000 for Owner Alexis Thompson in winning the National Football league championship last season, are definitely up for sale.

Thompson, disclosing this yesterday in New York, said the price tag "is no less than $250,000 and no higher than $300,000." General Manager Charles Ewart was authorized to negotiate with prospective buyers.

Frankie Laine, radio and recording singer, said in Hollywood last night that he had wired Thompson he was interested in buying the Eagles.

Ewart, who also serves as backfield coach for Earle (Greasy) Neale, said Thompson had given him a 60-day option to negotiate with interested groups for sale of the club subject to the approval of League Commissioner Bert Bell.

Call Mathias Top Amateur Athlete

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Bob Mathias' thrilling victory over the world's greatest all-around athletes in the Decathlon event of the Olympic games last summer has won for the Tulare, Calif., youth the 1948 James E. Sullivan trophy as the nation's outstanding amateur athlete.

Of 525 sports leaders who participated in the annual poll conducted by the Amateur Athletic association, 261 voted for the 17-year-old marvel who outran, outjumped and outthrew them all in the trying 10-event classic at London.

"It's terrific," young Mathias said when he was informed of the honor at Kiskiminetas Springs Preparatory school in Saltsburg, Pa., where he is a freshman student.

"I'm very glad," he added. "I feel it's a great honor—and the second biggest thing that ever happened to me." His top thrill, he said, was winning the Olympic Decathlon.

FAVORITES IN CAGE LEAGUES GET TRIUMPHS

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Pre-season favorites are living up to their reputations in the first week of Pennsylvania Scholastic Basketball league competition.

Altiplano and Homestead, the two powerhouses in WPAL Class A competition, both came through their first league encounters with a clean slate but the Homestead Steelers were pressed to down a stubborn McKeesport quintet, 30 to 27. Alli-plano easily swamped Beaver Falls, 51 to 26, in a Section 3 opener.

Last year's western champion Ford City Five continued its drop in prestige by losing a 43 to 30 contest to New Kensington.

LOU BOUDREAU PICKED AS TOP MALE ATHLETE

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Lou Boudreau, player-manager of the World Champion Cleveland Indians, today was named male athlete-of-the-year for 1948 in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

The personable Cleveland shortstop barely edged out Bob Mathias of Tulare, Calif., the Olympic decathlon champion, in a point tabulation. Actually Mathias had 34 first-place votes to 33 for Boudreau but the Indians' skipper slid home first on seconds and third to win 156-149.

The votes of the 99 participating sports writers were tabulated on the customary basis of three points for a first-place ballot, two for a second and one for a third.

Boudreau backed up his 33 firsts with 23 seconds and 11 thirds. Mathias had 34 firsts, 19 seconds and 9 thirds.

Mathias Gets Award
Yesterday Mathias was named the winner of the Sullivan Memorial award. The trophy goes annually to the year's outstanding amateur athlete as determined in a poll conducted by the Amateur Athletic Union.

Boudreau's 1948 successes were topped by the World Series success of his team against the Braves. His two homers in the title play-off game with the Boston Red Sox boosted the Tribe into the Series.

Stan Musial, the St. Louis Cardinal outfielder who led the National league hitters in everything except home runs, was a solid third with 12 firsts and 77 points.

Then came Ben Hogan, the Hershey, Pa., golfer who won both the PGA and national open crowns as well as $32,112 in various 1948 PGA tournaments. Hogan drew 5 firsts and 49 points.

Walker Is Fifth
Football, which supplied the winner last year in Notre Dame's Johnny Lujack, took fifth place with Doak Walker, Southern Methodist's brilliant All-America halfback. Walker had one first and 25 points.

Harrison Dillard, the ace hurdler who missed the Olympic team in his specialty but came through as a sprinter to win the 100-meter dash, was sixth with two firsts and 19 points.

Gene Bearden, one of Boudreau's most valuable helpers at Cleveland with his 20 pitching victories in a rookie season, was seventh with 15 points. One writer picked Bearden first and one named Charley Justice, North Carolina's All-America halfback, as his No. 1 choice. Justice was eighth with 12 points.

Joe Louis, winner in 1935, drew three firsts and 11 points for his successful title defense against Jersey Joe Walcott. Three men tied for tenth position—Lightweight Boxing Champion Ike Williams, New York Yankee Centerfielder Joe DiMaggio and Olympic Swim Champion Wally Ris.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Jan. 6 (AP)—Charley Loftus, Yale's curator of sports and a fast man with a word, wants to know if some of our favorite games aren't being made somewhat too fast. . . . Citing pro basketball, in which it isn't unusual for a team to hit 100 points in a game, and some of those pro football contests which produced "basketball" scores, Charley asks: "What has happened to defense?" . . . He might be coining a phrase, also ask: "Whether are we drifting?" . . . He also adds: "Let's go back to baseball, which still is the great game of this country. The majority of people do not want to see a 1 to 0 game day after day. Perhaps the best game would be, say, 7 to 4, with a couple of home runs, some good clutch pitching, etc. . . . Do you think the American public would tolerate baseball games which ended 23 to 21?"

ONE ANSWER

The only real reply to that question would have to come from the American public, which hasn't given up on basketball yet. . . . This observer has been educated to like college basketball games in which both teams score in the 50's or 60's. Too open football we consider an abomination, but a lot of fans seem to like it and we notice the pros don't make any big scores when they're playing for the blue chips. . . . Baseball is a boring game in which the only suspense comes from the pitcher vs. batter duels. . . . Take away those and you'd have something about as exciting as a horse race against time, with no betting.

Coach Chick Werner thinks Curt can become a good miler if he concentrates on it, but most indoor meet promoters want him to oppose the foreign invaders at two miles this winter. . . . ## Villanova Gridders Reply To Charges

Green River, Wyo., Jan. 6 (AP)—Villanova college players, snowbound here on their way from the Harbor Bowl, scoffed today at reports they played dirty football in their New Year's Day game with Nevada.

Jerry Neri, John McKenna and Art Raimo, assistant Wildcat coaches, spoke for the players and Coach Jordan Oliver who is attending a meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association in San Francisco. They said: "Officials of the Harbor Bowl were members of the Western Conference Officiating Division. None was an easterner. It stands to reason that if there were any infractions of the rules they would have called them."

"We had moves taken of the game and we would like to go over them with Nevada players and coaches and have them point out where we did anything wrong."

"Villanova perfected a defense against passes that was new to Nevada. It is a system employed by pro football teams. We managed to take care of Nevada receivers before they could get out and Stan Heath, Nevada's great passer, couldn't connect."

THE CASHEW FAMILY OF PLANTS

In few families of classified plants are found so many saints and such outstanding villains as we recognize in the so-called Cashew or Anacardiaceae family. The botanical name here given is, as it indicates, derived from the same source as our word "heart," referring to the heart-shape of nuts from several genera of this group.

Many members of the cashew family yield valuable resins, and for this reason the group stands high in economic importance. For examples, one species, Pistacia terebinthus, of the Mediterranean region, produces Cyprus turpentine. Japanese wax, a vegetable product imported for many years from the Orient, comes from another genus, Rhus succedanea. Another genus yields the famous black varnish of Burma. From the nut receptacle of the cashew is manufactured an oil used in making certain condiments.

As already indicated by the generic names, this family lays botanical claim to the delicious cashew nut of commerce. The nut is native to tropical America and comes from the tree listed as Anacardium occidentale.

A prominent product found in almost every drug store is mastic gum, manufactured from the sap of Pistacia lentiscus, a tree native to Asia. The generic name of Pistacia logically leads to the fact that the Pistacia nut now on sale in most candy and confection stores grows on a Syrian tree known as Pistacia vera.

Relatively few persons in the United States have tasted mangoes, a tropical fruit native to the East Indies and now grown in a very limited way in Florida. It is probable that quick-freezing and other improvements in refrigeration and rapid transportation will soon bring this delicious fruit into wide use. The mango belongs to the cashew family, being produced by Mangifera indica.

Another genus which includes but two known species is the Cyrtocarpus of southern California. It, too, bears an edible fruit relished by natives of northern Mexico.

The Pepper tree of California, a popular shade tree along the Pacific coast, is another relative of the cashew family.

The villains of this family need no introduction. Their evils have established their reputation widely, although among them are a few beneficial plants. This group is found almost entirely in the genus Rhus — better known as sumacs. Here are Poison Ivy, Poison Sumac, Poison Oak and a few other names of local application, including Poison Elder and Poison Dogwood.

But not all the Rhus children, as already mentioned, are villainous in their behavior. There are several species of sumacs, for example, which make excellent ornamental shrubs. Even the wild sumac of worn-out pasture fields is beautiful with its deep red fruit clusters in late summer and autumn. Almost the entire sumac group yield valuable tannin for making leather.

Another fine ornamental shrub or small tree of this group is best known Smoke-tree, correctly listed as Cotinus.

Virginia Creeper, often confused with Poison Ivy, is not in any manner related to this side of the Cashew family. Its slight resemblance to the leaves of Poison Ivy has caused many persons to shun it. The so-called Skunk-Bush is Rhus trilobata.

OIL SPRAYS TO KILL SCALE PESTS

Mild periods in January or early February when the temperature is well above freezing offer excellent opportunities for applying dormant sprays to kill scale pests on shade trees, fruit trees, woody vines, shrubs and similar deciduous plants. In this task two important facts must be met and understood: (1) Sprays strong enough to kill most scales must be applied before growth starts; (2) Unless dormant sprays are applied early in the new year, preferably before the middle of February, other spring tasks will likely crowd the work out until it is too late for another year.

The first step in meeting the challenge of scale pests is to determine what plants are infested. There is no swivel-chair way to decide this matter. It can be done only by careful examination of individual plants. No woody plant is immune to scale infestation. Of course, fruit trees are all susceptible, and likewise most species of shade trees may be seriously attacked. Among woody shrubs the lilacs are usually among the most likely to be infested, although viburnums, flowering cherry, mock-orange and all other deciduous shrubs suffer from this pest. Grape vines, currant and gooseberry bushes, bramble fruits, and blueberries should be included in the suspected group of plants.

Two main species of scales cause most of the trouble—the well known San Jose scale and the less widely recognized oyster-shell scale. The younger woods are usually most severely attacked with heavy encrusta-container from the fire and add slowly 2 gallons of kerosene while stirring vigorously. Continue to stir until a cream-like consistency is obtained. This is a stock solution and should be further diluted with water at the rate of one part stock with one and two-thirds to two gallons of water,—this for dormant application.

The word "impressionism" used in connection with art was coined by

Today's Talk

IN A MINORITY

Never let it bother you if you find yourself in a minority. Most of us find ourselves there many a time.
In a way it is a distinction. It emphasizes our independence of mind and makes us stand out in an honest light. People run into oblivion who make it a rule to rush, or edge into, the popular crowd.

It has never been uncommon for the minority to become the majority.
That's where the majority originates.
But no voice sounds clearer, or with greater sincerity, than that of the minority. Read your histories and your biographies and you will note how those who stood out and exclaimed the truth have become the revered of all time. Wendell Phillips once said that the greatest brains didn't go to Congress.
Neither have the greatest men been elected President of the United States.
Henry Clay's exclamation that he would "rather be right than President" has given him fame beyond many a forgotten President.

Great ideas are hatched in minorities.
People laughed at the early attempts of the Wright brothers.
The great Pasteur stood alone in his experiments against the majority opinion of his day. Every train is a tribute to Westinghouse for his invention of the air-brake for stopping trains. But once they laughed at him. "Silly fool," they said, at the very idea of stopping a great train with wind! But he won out.

Radical ideas of a generation or so ago have become the conservative ideas of today. You see, the minorities are always at work. In thousands of laboratories they work on, ceaselessly and with patience.
It is well for people to make note of, and seriously consider, every "minority report."

No one should be afraid to be different, or to be exactly what he is. There are too many apers in the world already. The greatest gift that you own is your personality.
Don't let anyone tamper with it!
Be proud of it and keep developing it.
As capital it is beyond material price. Emerson once wrote that "the strongest man on earth is the man who stands most alone."

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Silent Friends."

A FRIEND UNIQUE

So strange a friend! So different from
All others—Harry, Dick or Tom,
Or Ella, Lydia, Bess or Jane—
With me outstanding you'll remain.
I'd say—and it is truth I speak—
In one respect you are unique.

The other day we stopped to chat.
I sneezed. No notice paid to that!
I coughed. You saw my eyes were red,
And not a word of that you said.
Despite the wheezing in my chest,
You merely told a merry jest.

Plainly a cold! And I was sure You'd soon prescribe your favorite cure

And ere we parted you would tell
Just what would promptly have me well.
All other friends, both young and old,
Know just the pill to cure a cold.

Not you. You heard me hack and cough,
And silently went walking off!

Items Of Interest To Emmitsburg

2 HEIRS SEEK ACCOUNTING OF $4,600 BEQUEST

Claiming their guardian, now deceased, used funds distributed to them to pay off a part of his personal indebtedness, William A. Lingg and Clarence V. Lingg, of Baltimore, have entered suit in Equity Court, Frederick, seeking to recover approximately $4,600.

The suit is against Howard V. Tull, executor of the will of Mrs. Rose E. Lingg, and Tull and John M. McGraw, devisees of Mrs. Lingg, all of Emmitsburg.

The complainants say they are the children of Michael and Margaret M. Lingg. When their father died, the widow was appointed administratrix and guardian of three children, the plaintiffs and their sister, Edna. Upon their mother's death, their sister, the only one of the children of age, was appointed administratrix and their father's cousin, Ignatius H. Lingg, appointed as agent.

Accounts of their mother and father were stated, real estate sold and certain funds accumulated while the sons were still minors. The bill of complaint recites property owned by Ignatius Lingg and wife, Rose, and three judgments against it, all now paid and satisfied. The real estate included a property on East Main street, Emmitsburg, and a farm two miles south of Emmitsburg.

When the younger of the brothers became 21, the complaint continues, they contacted their guardian, Ignatius Lingg, who stated, they say, that he had used their funds aggregating $4,636.47 to pay off judgment liens against the properties he and his wife owned and that if they insisted on payment he would have to dispose of one or more of the parcels. Because of their trust in their guardian, they said, they did not press for payment.

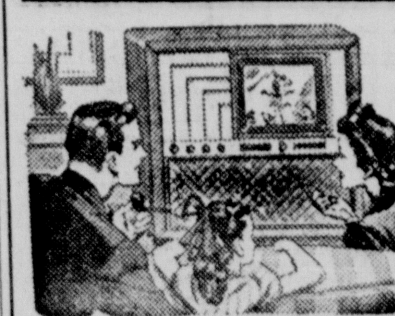

When he died, title passed to his wife, their aunt, the complainants say, and the question of reimbursement of the guardian funds was discussed with her on numerous occasions. She convinced them, they say, that it would work a hardship on her to pay the sums but they would be fully repaid with interest when the real estate was sold after her death.

But when she died, the complaint continues, Tull was named executor and Tull and McGraw were left the real estate. The complainants claim the real estate is subject to an equitable lien for the guardianship funds used to release the real estate from the judgment liens. The Court is asked to assume jurisdiction, define rights of the parties, grant equitable relief and restrain the defendants from disposing of the real estate pending final determination. Benjamin B. Rosenstock, T. West Claggett, Jr., and Charles U. Price represent the complainants.

VET SENATORS TO LEAD BOTH PARTIES IN PA.

By JOHN DIETRICK

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Two seasoned veterans, both skilled orators and master showmen, will guide Republican and Democratic programs through the state Senate during the 1949 Legislature.

The Republicans have chosen Sen. John M. Walker, of Allegheny county, as majority leader to spearhead their program, while the Democrats have selected Sen. John H. Dent, of Westmoreland county, as minority leader.

Both men are noted for their energy and aggressive tactics and promise to make the Senate floor a dramatic backdrop for coming legislative battles.

Dent has the edge in experience with three terms in the Senate already behind him, the last two as minority leader. It will be Walker's first term as majority but he is a veteran in length of service. He is now midway in his third term as senator.

Dent is a short, stocky man, with dark hair and dark complexion, he is widely known in legislative circles for his oratorical ability, and is at his best under fire. He expects to be under fire often this session.

"Any plan advanced by the majority party will bear close examination," Dent told a reporter, "and we intend to do just that. The way I see it," he added, "this is going to be the toughest session I have been in."

Dent, a salesman, was born in

Navy Comes To Aid Of 'Broke' Soldiers

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 6 (AP)—The navy lent a hand to a group of 51 soldiers stranded here en route to Fort Lewis, Wash., after a 14-day Christmas furlough.

The virtually penniless teen-age recruits from east coast states were delayed here after their C-46 plane was grounded last night in Des Moines because of weather conditions farther west. A two-day delay in Pittsburgh had sapped the reserve funds of many of the soldiers.

Lt. Comm. E. C. Edrington, in charge of the Naval Reserve Training center here, was notified of their plight. He ordered the men quartered at the reserve center. The National Guard provided blankets.

The soldiers left New York city Monday morning, but their plane was grounded at Pittsburgh three hours later. The plane is one of a group of chartered ships which flew servicemen to the east coast for the holidays.

Armstrong county, but has lived in Westmoreland county for the past thirty years. He first entered politics as a councilman at Jeannette. He has sponsored several labor bills and measures instituting social reforms. He also keeps a watchdog eye on state finances.

"I started something new in the state," he said, "After the governor gives his budget, I give one."

Walker also was born in Armstrong county, but never met Dent until he came to Harrisburg in 1939. Walker was born in Leechburg.

Walker also is a polished orator and handles himself skillfully on the floor. A lawyer by profession, he is a tall, broad-shouldered man with sandy hair with a liberal outlook in his political views.

10,000 WILL ATTEND MEETS AT FARM SHOW

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—More than 10,000 farm people are expected to attend meetings of 30-state-wide agriculture organizations here next week during the 33rd Annual Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"Practically every farm organization will take up latest developments in improved agricultural methods that eventually will lead to lower costs of production," Agriculture secretary Miles Horst said today.

"Various livestock groups will consider breeding, feeding and disease control for more efficient production," he said. "Back of farmer deliberations will be further advancement of the quality of all Pennsylvania farm products."

A three-day series of vocational school demonstrations begins Monday morning and all organizations will jam their sessions into the next three days.

Livestock Arrives

Turning to the huge farm show itself, Horst said "consumers will see in the competitive farmer exhibits the exceptionally high standard of quality that already exists in Pennsylvania fruit, vegetables, milk, eggs, livestock, poultry and all other farm products. That quality attracts most of the half million people that usually attend the Pennsylvania Farm Show."

Meanwhile, workmen yesterday completed the distribution of straw bedding at the 14-acre farm show building for the record number of 1,558 head of livestock expected for the 1949 exposition.

Livestock began arriving today. To take care of them for the week, the farm show management has laid in 80 tons of straw, 75 tons of

MISSION GROUP REBUFS BID TO JOIN IN UNION

By BILLY WHEELOCK

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP)—A move toward formation in 1950 of a Protestant super organization embracing virtually all interdenominational agencies has been rebuffed by the oldest and largest group invited to participate.

Delegates of the 61-denomination foreign missions conference voted at their 55th annual meeting here last night to stay out of the projected National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A.

The vote, announced shortly before midnight, came after more than six hours of debate which began early in the afternoon. Approval of two-thirds of the voting delegates was necessary.

Canadians Neutral
The vote was 63 against, 51 for, 12 who took no position and one invalid ballot. The neutral ballots apparently came from Canadian members who announced earlier they would abstain because they felt it was a matter for the U. S. churches to decide.

The successful opposition to the proposed merger was led by delegates of the Southern Baptist convention and the Presbyterian church in the U. E. (southern). Numerous attempts were made, however, by both those who opposed and supported the merger to postpone any action at all.

Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer, retiring secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist church, who supported the merger, proposed a postponement of the vote. In doing so he explained that the Methodist church, while favoring participation in the national council, would not wish to vote now "if the results would destroy fellowship of the members of the Foreign Missions conference."

Support for the merger came from the Methodists, Northern Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Congregationalists and other large denominations. It was the secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions for the Northern Presbyterians who led the supporting debate.

Dr. Charles T. Leber arose several times to urge not only adoption but to deny delay. It was Leber's board associate, the Rev. John T. Peters of New York, who told the delegates: "A postponement of the vote will be regarded by church members and the world as pussyfooting. The Protestant church again and again has lost battles because it has been afraid to speak its mind."

The delegates, in finally disposing of the proposed merger, acknowledged in debate that the national council will be organized regardless of the Foreign Missions conference action.

Only 34 states give women the right to serve on juries.

Warn Bakers On Special Labels

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Bakers were directed today by the State Agriculture department to use care in placing the label "fortified" or "enriched" with added minerals or vitamins on their products.

The department issued new official regulations on enrichment of certain products and said it will prosecute violators under the Bakery and General Food laws of the state.

The items involved include bread, rolls, macaroni, and other bakery products. Regulations already are in effect for enrichment of flours, wheat cereal, corn grits and corn meal.

Plan Welcome For 'Thank You' Train

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—Gov. James H. Duff today named John Brannan, of Harrisburg, as general chairman of the state committee to welcome the French "Thank You" train to the commonwealth this month.

The train, made up of the famed 40 or 8 boxcars used by American soldiers in France during world war one, is carrying contributions from the French people to the 48 states and Hawaii as an expression of gratitude for last year's Friendship train.

It is scheduled to dock in New York on Jan. 22.

Chapter 20

From a drugstore on Eighth I tried Goldielocks's apartment. She was home, and when she learned who was at the other end she practically came swimming down the wire.

"Look, beautiful, can you get in touch with Parkus and Barone?" I wanted to know.

There was so much silence I thought for a moment that we had been cut off. We hadn't. The little slick chick was taking a leaf from Parrish's book, no doubt. Thinking hard. And furiously, no?

"Very well, Gerry," she pouted. "I'll call them."

When Zara Zaralis opened the apartment door at my ring I had only to look past her to see Barone and Parkus all set with a drink apiece. To me she looked pretty okay, considering that last night she had stepped a few fass rouins with an unknown intruder. There was just the bare traces of a couple of scratches on her face, the left side. Cream, powder, and such had been put to work with a fine art, believe me.

"I've found Maurice Cardeur." It is hard to look at three faces at the same time. But I did my best, and got results that didn't boost my spirits a terrible lot. The three of them leaned forward quickly, mouths opening. Barone won.

"You have? Where?"

"In the Bellevue Morgue," I said. And Parkus's fixed smile went out just like that. Barone's face seemed to drop two inches, and then freeze. Goldielocks sucked in air, and half reached out a trembling hand.

"In the . . . the what, Gerry?" she gasped.

"The Bellevue Morgue," I repeated. "He was pulled out of the Hudson river early this morning. He had been garroted. The same way, as of course you know now, that Rene DeFoe was murdered. It was I who identified Cardeur for the police."

"It cannot be murder!" Goldielocks cried. "It cannot. Suicide, perhaps, yes. Maurice could be like that. How many the times have I heard him declare so. But murder. No, no, NO!"

"Yes," I said quietly. "I saw the body. It was Cardeur's."

"You were mistaken, Zara," Barone suddenly spoke, in a voice that sounded lifeless. "Could it not be that you were mistaken? That Maurice did not come here to be the jealous fool?"

Of course it clicked with me at once what he was talking about.

"But it was Maurice!" she cried. Then, thrusting them out, "Do I not have hands that can feel? I tell you I felt his face as we struggled. It was Maurice's face. It . . . I do not understand! This is . . . is all of the madness!"

"Why did you lie to Lieutenant Bierman?"

Yes, it was the Barnes voice. Cracking like a whip. And she reacted like the end had caught her right across her pretty mouth . . . that was all twisted and not at all pretty at the moment.

"Lieutenant Bierman?" she got out weakly. "Then you know?"

"I know," I said.

"I . . . I . . . !" She stopped there, and choked up. "I could not tell him!" she finally made it. "He would punish my Maurice!"

And when that was out she put her two hands to her face and cried with great shaking sobs that came all the way up from her toes.

"Monsieur Barnes, what you have told us is a great shock," Barone said in a dull, dead voice. "But for Zara . . . it is enough to crush the heart. You see Monsieur . . . ?"

He paused and looked at me out of tragic eyes. Along with his smudgy-skinned face it was a startling combination. While he worked his hands a little, and fumbled for words, I just held a politely lifted brow.

"They were everything to each other," he finally decided on the best ones. "It began in France when they met. Monsieur Barnes, it was not so much for myself as for Zara. I wished you to find Maurice. You understand? You see?"

"Not quite," I said. "Lieutenant Bierman told me something else. That this apartment is . . . was . . . in Rene DeFoe's name."

"But what of that, Monsieur?" he murmured. "In this country that is no crime."

"Definitely not." I tried to get back some of my edge. "And in your country it is quite the usual thing."

"Most certainly," he said. Then as though the thought had hit him hard, he asked quickly, "Do you mean the Lieutenant Bierman suspects Zara of that swine's death?"

"DeFoe's?" I said to make sure.

"Who else?" he came back sharply. "Certainly DeFoe, Monsieur! And it would be absurd to think any such thing of Zara! Why should she murder DeFoe?"

"I wouldn't know," I said. "Tell me, Barone, when did you learn about DeFoe's end?"

At that point the ex-GI, Andy Parkus, broke into the conversation. "Five minutes after we left you yesterday, Barnes," he said. "The newspapers had just hit the street. Why didn't you tell us?"

I looked at him and grinned. "Nobody asked me a thing about DeFoe," I told him. "It was all about Cardeur. But now that we've brought DeFoe up, have you any idea who killed him?"

He nodded, and my heart leaped a little.

"A couple of dozen ideas, Barnes," he said with that damned grin. "All guys who hated his guts."

Barone started to speak but a funny hissing gasp from Zara Zaralis stopped him.

"That one!" she fairly spat out. "No other, Parrish!"

Andy Parkus jerked up in his chair next to mine. "Could be!" I looked at Barone, and waited. He was certainly a guy of moods. He swiveled his eyes around to mine.

"You have asked us, so now I ask you. Who do you think killed him, eh?"

"My hunch," I told him, "is somebody by the name of Herbert Varney."

Chapter 21

Well, I had pulled it out of the thin air and tossed it right into their faces. So I sat waiting for things to happen, and trying to catch their expressions all at the same time. I caught two of them, Barone's and Parkus's. Both blanks. I couldn't catch Goldielocks's, though. She had buried her face in her hands and was weeping some more.

"Herbert Varney?" Barone said, pronouncing the name slowly, to see how it felt coming off his tongue. "Who is this Herbert Varney?"

"I don't know," I said. "Ever know anybody by that name? Say in France during the war?"

"No. No one by that name. But in the Underground one did not use his correct name. No. I did not know a Herbert Varney."

I looked quickly at Parkus and hoisted an inquiring brow. He shook his head along with his grin.

"Not that I recall, Barnes," he said. "Nobody in my outfit by that name."

And then I looked at weeping Goldielocks. "How about you, Goldielocks?" I caught myself in time. "Do you, or did you, know anybody by that name?"

"No, the name I do not know," she said. "At least I do not think so. But my head! There is such an ache. You must pardon me. . . . It has been so very much. I . . ."

She let the rest go. Rather, she finished it with a little feeble movement of one hand. Henri Barone was on his feet in an instant.

"But of course, Zara!" he soothed her. "You must rest. You must have sleep. It has been such a terrible blow. We will go at once. I will phone you later. Perhaps then you will be feeling a little better, eh?"

"Perhaps, Henri," she smiled wanly, and gave her hand.

She went on talking. But I heard hardly any of it. I was too fascinated by the very smooth and easy performance that was being acted out right before my eyes. I mean, she had linked an arm with Barone, and one with Parkus, and was guiding them toward the apartment door. Yes sir! Right to the door and through it, just like I was some other guy in another state. Even when it came to me that Barone was going out the door owing me the other thousand for having found Cardeur dead or alive, the realization didn't seem important at all!

"What was the idea of that?" I demanded.

"Of that?" she echoed, with a little quizzical smile.

"The headache gar, and giving them the rush," I said evenly. Then quickly, "Did you, or did you not?"

She sat up straight, eyes wide. "My sweet Gerry, I think you try to break my heart, no?" she said.

"The idea hadn't occurred to me," I grunted, and had the faint feeling that I was floundering. "What do you mean?"

"All these nice things, she said. 'Maurice could not give these to me. So you think Maurice is most jealous of Rene? He is so jealous that he decides he will kill Rene. So I find out that Maurice has killed Rene and that makes me very, very mad? I must punish Maurice because now Rene cannot pay for all these nice things. He is dead. So I punish Maurice, no? I kill him, too? It is the way you think, yes?'"

"Exactly the way I think, Goldielocks," I grinned at her. "But I don't think I'll call the cops yet. A couple of other things I want to find out first. One of them, the Mr. X in this thing."

"The Mr. X, Gerry?"

"Herbert Varney," I said, and watched her.

She frowned, had some of her drink, and frowned some more.

"Who is this Hervet Varney?" she asked, still holding the frown, a perplexed one. "Did Rene tell you about him, when you talked at that so very awful party?"

I grinned, and couldn't stop it from working up into a chuckle. "It is funny, what I ask?" she wanted to know right away.

"Not much," I said with a shake of my head.

"Tell me this, what did Gordon Parrish ever do to you?"

"I will tell you," she said, and there was no baby doll in that voice. "I will tell you just one of many things, so that you will understand. It was in Paris. The second year of the war. Parrish was the . . . what you call, leader of our unit. He was in love with me, but I do not love him at all. He try so very hard, but always I refuse. I laugh at him. The others see me laugh. Parrish . . . he is a little like Rene. He cannot stand the laughter. Because of his face, I think. So he try to have me fall in to the hands of the Nazi Gestapo in Paris. Maurice finds out. It is Maurice who saves my life."

"Just a pal," I said. "But he must have known about you and Cardeur, didn't he? And maybe you and Rene, too?"

"But yes," she said simply. "We were all of the Underground. There were no secrets such as that."

"Look, Goldielocks!" I said, tight-lipped. "Maybe you folks in the Underground think nothing at all about a couple of killings. Over here we look at it different. We don't like killings at all. Not even nice ones. Suppose you think hard and come up with what's behind it, eh?"

If it registered it certainly didn't show in her face.

"Perhaps if you give me the explanation, Gerry?" she murmured.

As a starter for that I held up my right hand with the thumb and second finger folded.

"DeFoe and Cardeur, both dead," I said. "They didn't kill each other."

ST. LOUIS BOY PICKS FARM LIFE

Sharon, Pa., Jan. 6 (P)—Herbie Sugden, Jr., a gangling 13-year-old who hates city life so much he ran away from home, has his father's permission to go back to the farm.

Herbie, son of a St. Louis cereal company executive, wandered into the Sharon police station Tuesday night, he asked for a place to sleep. The police checked their teletypes. A general alarm had been sent out Somebody else. Who? I have an idea. Why? I haven't that idea, yet! Over you? Maybe. What do you think?"

"You are a fool! A fool, do you not see?"

"Okey, I'm sorry, Goldielocks," I said. "After all, it was just a thought. Heels like me get lots of thoughts. You'd be surprised at the kinds. Sorry about Cardeur, too. Now you go get that rest. Some night I'll buy you a dinner, and try to get you to forgive. Bye, baby."

But when I was down on the sidewalk, and debating my next move, a question suddenly occurred to me. I mean, just why had she given Barone and Parkus the rush, and kept me there? It certainly hadn't been for the reason you'd be inclined to think, that was a cinch!

"I don't like city life," Herbie said. "I don't know why. I just don't like it. I'm going to be a farmer."

The Sugden family lived on a farm at Morristown, N. Y., until last November. Herbie said he was on the way to his grandparents in Himrod, N. Y. He started out with $19 but reached Sharon with only $125.

The boy talked with his father, Herbert Sugden, Jr., by long distance and cheerfully reported: "Dad said I don't have to go back to St. Louis. I can stay with grandfather on the farm and go to school there."

His grandfather was motoring here to claim Herbie.

"He's helping us out," reported desk Sgt. Charles Egan. "I think now he wants to be a policeman."

Delay Mummerys For Freedom Train

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (P)—Philadelphia's annual Mummerys parade—postponed from New Year's Day because of bad weather—will be delayed an hour Saturday in order not to interfere with the city's welcome to the returning Freedom Train.

Officials said the frolicking Mummerys would begin assembling at 8:30 a. m. but that their march would be timed to reach City Hall at 11 a. m. This will be just after welcoming ceremonies for the Freedom Train are completed at Broad Street station.

Judge Vincent A. Carroll, chairman of the Freedom Train's Veteran Day committee, said a veterans group planning a welcome for the Freedom Train had a prior commitment for use of the Broad and Market street area beginning at 10

By ALEX H. SINGLETON
London, Jan. 6 (AP)—Western Europe, most of it under Socialist control, today generally interpreted President Truman's state-of-the-union message as evidence the United States will move further to the left.
And, generally, it was pleased. The Communists were pleased, too—but for a different reason. They seized upon the chief executive's program as propaganda to prove social and economic backwardness in the United States.
In Britain, however, the independent-liberal Manchester Guardian cited Mr. Truman's program as an indication that "Socialism is not the only path from the left. Its goal might be called the insurance state, its method the deliberate shortening of the odds against the weak, but without abandoning the basically individualist way of life which is accepted as characteristically American."
Surprises Old New Deal
The London Evening Star, a liberal paper also, said the President "has surpassed Roosevelt's new deal in scope and political daring." It declared Mr. Truman has set himself a "colossal task" and added: "The social revolution in America may be well under way by 1952."
In western Germany, the press took a similar line. The Frankfurt Neue Presse, Independent, said the United States, "is converting itself from a liberal to a social democracy for which the well-being of the masses is more important than the wealth of the few."
Moscow, Jan. 6 (AP)—Moscow newspapers printed a 49-word item today on President Truman's state of the union message.
The item, a Tass dispatch from Washington, said the speech was Emmitsburg—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fuss entertained at a turkey dinner recently in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cregger who were recently married.

Mrs. Roy Bollinger, granddaughter, Patty Jean Bower, and Mrs. Carrie Hartzell spent New Year's Day with Mr. and Mrs. Halbert Poole, Jr., and family near Gaithersburg, Md.
Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Frazer and son, Philip, Gettysburg, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Frazer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wetzel, near St. Anthony's.
Mrs. John Trent received a telephone call on December 27 from her son, Pvt. Paul H. Trent, who is stationed in Vienna, Austria. He said he had seen William Timmerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Timmerman and had a long chat with him. Timmerman and Trent are stationed at the same base.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert Maxwell and son, Camp Hill, visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. George Eyster. The Entre Nous sewing club held its Christmas party in the form of a turkey dinner at the home of Mrs. E. L. Higbee. Gifts were exchanged and the birthday of Mrs. Edgar Rhodes and Mrs. Claude Cori were celebrated.
Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Polly, Fairfield, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. George Eyster.
Mrs. Hazel Caldwell has returned after spending the holidays with relatives in Alexandria, Va.
Mr. and Mrs. John Trent announce the marriage of their son, Coy A. Trent, SK-2, to Miss Harriet Borough at Patuxent River, Md., on December 14.
A series of union services will be held during the week observing a universal week of prayer. The first service was held in the Lutheran church, Wednesday evening, the second will be held this evening in the Methodist church; the third, Friday evening, in the Reformed church.
devoted basically to domestic problems, but also contained "most important foreign policy questions."

MYERS ACTS TO BACK TRUMAN

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—The newly named Democratic whip in the Senate, Francis J. Myers of Pennsylvania, wasted no time as the Senate got down to business.
Shortly after President Truman finished his speech yesterday, Myers, senior Senator from Pennsylvania, participated in preliminary plans to carry out the President's labor program, co-sponsored legislation for the chief executive's housing plan and took an active part in nipping in the bud a surprise Republican move to abolish the filibuster.
Myers liked the President's speech, too. He said it "gave renewed assurance to the American people that the Democratic party meant what it said in the 1948 platform." It also proved that HST "meant what he said in his campaign talks," the Senator added.
Wage, Housing Bills
Senator Edward Martin (R.-Pa.) said he would apply to Mr. Truman's recommendations the formula he had devised for all proposals: Is it right? Will it work? Is it for the good of all of the people? Can we afford it?
Myers opened the labor recommendations of the President with the introduction of a bill to raise the minimum wage from 40 to 75 cents an hour.
Then he joined six other Democratic senators in proposing a bill to meet the President's housing program proposals. It provides for a 40-year, $18,000,000,000 program of public housing, slum clearance, farm home construction and housing research.
Five Republican Senators put their church and the last Sunday evening in the Presbyterian church.
Catechism class will be held at Elias Lutheran church on Saturday at 1:30 p. m.; boys' and girls' choir rehearsal at 2:30 p. m. The Young People's choir of the church will be continued with Mrs. Thomas Bolinger as director.

Free Young Woman Of Murder Charge

Philadelphia, Jan. 6 (AP)—A jury deliberated only a little more than an hour last night before finding Mrs. Dorothy Elizabeth Reeves innocent in the "honor" slaying of her sailor husband, Leslie, 29, last September 5.
The plump, attractive 26-year-old defendant shook with sobs of relief and had to be supported by two court attendants as the jury of seven women and five men announced the verdict.
The state had sought to convict the woman on a charge of shooting her husband after he stayed out all night with his 18-year-old sister, Peggy Miles, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. Reeves testified she feared her husband had dishonored her sister.
Reeves, a chief pharmacist's mate stationed at the Philadelphia Naval Base hospital, had taken Peggy to a movie at the hospital during the evening of September 4, it was testified.
Still sitting in the box, the jurors also returned a verdict of innocent on a second indictment of involuntary manslaughter.

Girl Found Hanged In Parish Church

Preston, Eng., Jan. 6 (AP)—A German girl was found hanged from the altar post in St. Hilda's parish church yesterday, authorities reported today.
The Bishop of Blackburn, the Rt. Rev. Wilfred Marcus Askwith, said he is seeking a ruling from high church authorities whether it will be necessary to reconsecrate the church. Even if it isn't he said, "I shall, in any case, have some sort of service there."
The dead girl was identified as Gertrude Rosa Gammisch, 24, who came to England as a volunteer worker in a cotton mill.
names on anti-filibuster bills but Myers got in the first shot. He introduced his measure just ahead of the Republicans.

West Digs Out From Blizzard; More Freezing Weather Hits California

FLOOD WATERS SWEEP THROUGH AREAS IN SOUTH

(By The Associated Press)
Distress signals flew over wide areas today on the nation's weather map.

The worst victims of weather's elements were the Rocky Mountain and Western Plains states; four southern states and the rich citrus area of California and Arizona.

The snow-bound Rocky Mountain and plains states struggled against seemingly insurmountable odds in dramatic manner in attempts to recover from the winter season's worst blizzard.

Floods And Blizzards
Flood waters spilled from rain-swollen rivers in four southern states—Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia—forcing thousands from their homes and isolating several communities.

More sub-freezing weather hit areas in the California-Arizona citrus belt and losses in the industry were estimated at $20,000,000.

There also was the threat of new floods in the northeastern section of the country. Heavy rains fell from the Carolinas northward along the Atlantic coast to New England.

The blizzard had finally blown out of the Dakotas and western Nebraska. No fresh snow fell, winds diminished and temperatures were in the 20s. The coldest areas in the country today were in Utah and Nevada—10 below at Milford, Utah, and 10 at Ely, Nev.

2,000 Flee Homes
Red Cross officials said more than 2,000 persons fled from their homes in the Columbus, Miss., area by flood waters from two rivers. Columbus was virtually isolated. Fifty thousand acres of land were flooded.

Another thousand persons were driven from their homes in Alabama and Tennessee. Rivers rose in North Georgia but no serious flood danger was forecast.

The known death toll in the storm belt was five. However, fear was expressed it might rise after the drifts finally are cleared.

TRUMAN SEEN RETURNING TO FDR NEW DEAL

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 6 (P)—President Truman is picking up the New Deal where President Roosevelt dropped it 10 years ago. With few exceptions, Mr. Truman's message to Congress goes straight back to Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal days and even beyond.

Here, item by item, are points in the message:

Pre-paid medical insurance: President Hoover's medical committee in 1932 recommended this. Succeeding Congresses did nothing although as long ago as 1938 Senator Wagner, New Deal Democrat of New York, began introducing bills for medical insurance.

Bring more people under social security: The social security program was first set up under Roosevelt in 1935.

In Roosevelt Footsteps
Low-rent public housing: Back in the early part of Roosevelt's Presidency the government built low-rent projects and later helped widely without direct building.

Civil rights program, with a fair employment practices committee (FEPC), an anti-lynching law, and an anti-poll tax law: Roosevelt wanted an FEPC. He said the government ought to suppress lynching. Bills to outlaw the poll tax have been in Congress 20 years.

St. Lawrence seaway and power project: Roosevelt wanted this as far back as 1934.

A new government department covering health, education and social security: Roosevelt proposed a social welfare department like that in 1937.

On Same Pattern

Department of Labor rebuilt and strengthened: Roosevelt asked for this in a special message to Congress in 1938.

Price support for farmers: Government price helps to farmers, in one way or another, were set up back in 1933.

Rural electrification should be expanded: The government set up the REA in 1935 to get electricity to the country's farmers, and at cheap prices.

Soil conservation act: Mr. Roosevelt's New Deal Congress in 1935 passed the first of his administration's conservation acts.

Other FDR Projects

Push forward development of rivers for power, irrigation, navigation and flood control: Roosevelt worked on this, too.

Apply the lessons learned from the Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) to other river basins: Roosevelt asked Congress to set up seven systems like TVA.

Authority to regulate speculation on commodity exchanges: Roosevelt asked for that as long ago as 1934.

Raise minimum wage from 40 cents an hour to 75 cents: The idea of the minimum wage for people in interstate commerce started with the New Deal.

So much for the New Deal roots in Mr. Truman's program.

His request for government authority to build steel mills, if Congress thinks they're necessary, is new. So is his request for a $4,000,000,000 tax increase.

Mr. Truman asked for universal military training, but he's asked for that before.

Mr. Truman says he wants the Taft-Hartley law repealed. He's said that before.

RULES CHANGES FOR COMMITTEE ARE IMPORTANT

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—You're involved in what happened to the House Rules committee. So is President Truman's program for 1949. The House Monday clipped the committee's power. That may seem complicated and far removed from you. It isn't.

When Mr. Truman campaigned for election, he promised a wide program if the voters gave his Democrats control of Congress in 1949: Housing, social security, Federal aid to education and health, civil rights for negroes, and a law wiping out the Taft-Hartley labor law.

Suppose This Happens

Mr. Truman's Democrats won. They're running Congress. Now suppose this happened: One of Mr. Truman's Democrats introduced a bill to wipe out the Taft-Hartley act. Because that's complex and far-reaching, the full House sent it to its members who specialize in labor, the Labor committee, for examination.

The Labor committee looked it over and approved. That committee, like all committees in Congress this year, is made up of Democrats and Republicans, with Democrats in the majority.

Held Enormous Power

Could they send the bill right back to the floor of the House for a vote? No. They had to send it to the House Rules committee. Why? Because long ago the House decided that bills approved by a specialized committee, like the Labor committee, would first go to the Rules committee.

Why? So the full House could do its work in an orderly way. The Rules committee would decide what bills should be considered by the full House ahead of another bill. Most important things first, was the idea.

But this was enormous power for the Rules committee. It could really smother a bill to death, if its members didn't like it, by not sending it up to the full House for a vote at all.

Committee's Wings Clipped

Wasn't there some way in which a smothered bill could be pried loose from the Rules committee? Yes, but only if 218 of the 435 House members signed a petition. Getting those names wasn't easy.

But yesterday the House deprived the committee of some of this power by a big vote: It decided to limit the time in which the committee

Littlestown

Littlestown—The new officers assumed their duties at the January meeting of the Ladies Aid society of Redeemer's Reformed church, held Tuesday evening in the social hall. Mrs. John LeGore, new president, was in charge of the worship program. She was assisted by Mrs. Samuel W. Beck who read the 12th chapter of Romans. Mrs. H. M. Badders read, "The House by the Side of the Road" and Mrs. LeGore read the poem, "Let's Forget." In the business session in charge of Mrs. LeGore, Mrs. Gladys Sanders was appointed pianist for the year and Mrs. Frank E. Reynolds, assistant pianist. Committee appointments include: membership: Mrs. Ralph Reaver, Mrs. Granville Jacoby and Mrs. H. M. Badders; and flower: Mrs. Charles Hofe and Miss Helen Myers. It was decided to eliminate secret sisters at the Christmas party in 1949. The auditing committee consisting of Mrs. S. W. Beck and Mrs. Granville Jacoby reported. Dues were set at $1 per year. The members of the society are asked to assist in house cleaning the church kitchen on Wednesday afternoon, January 12. The guest package contributed by Mrs. Lillian Zercher was received by Mrs. Reynolds. The next meeting will be held Tuesday, February 1 when Mrs. John LeGore and Mrs. S. W. Beck will be hostesses and Mrs. Ralph Reaver will be in charge of the program.

Miss Marie Budde, assistant professor of voice, Hood college, and her mother, Mrs. Roberta Budde, North Queen street, returned on Tuesday from a two weeks' vacation in Florida. They were visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Parker, Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Edward Spelbring, St. Petersburg, Fla. On Wednesday, Miss Budde returned to Frederick to assume her duties at Hood college.

First rehearsal of the Littlestown community band since the Christmas recess will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in the Littlestown fire hall. The Rev. Frank E. Reynolds, Maple Avenue, and Edward F. Hawk, could sit on a bill before letting the House vote on it. How?

This way: From now on, if the Rules committee doesn't send a bill up to the floor for a vote within 21 days after receiving it from one of the specialized committees, like the Labor committee, then—

The chairman of the specialized committee can ask the speaker of the House, Sam Rayburn, Texas Democrat, to take it away from the Rules committee. This puts a lot of power in Rayburn's hands. But he's an ally of Mr. Truman and can be relied upon to help the President's program.

East King street, visited Hood college, Frederick, Md., on Wednesday.

The Rev. Grantas E. Hooper, pastor of the Centenary Methodist church will be guest preacher at the union week of prayer service in the Methodist church, New Oxford on Friday evening.

The wives of the ministers of Littlestown will meet Friday at 2 p. m. in the Centenary Methodist church parsonage, East King street, to make preparations for the reception which will be tendered to ★ About that old prescription Dr. Jones wrote for you two years ago. The bottle is on the shelf in your medicine cabinet, about one-fourth full. It would be safer for you and your family to discard it. Someone might take it by mistake, or a child may be attracted to it by the bright color and do himself harm. Many medicines deteriorate after exposure to light and air. On long standing, some compounds change their chemical structure. Yes, the safe thing to do is to throw it away. ## YOU'RE GETTING MORE TELEPHONE SERVICE FOR LESS MONEY TODAY

Since 1932 the number of telephones in service has increased about 100%. The value of your service naturally increases when more telephones are in use because you can reach more people.

At the same time your cost of service actually decreases. By being able to reach more telephones, you spread your average monthly cost farther. Now you are actually "buying" 100% more telephone service at only a slight variation in cost. So, while the general cost of living continues to climb, you get more telephone service for less money.

DEM. LEADERS SHRUG CHARGES OF 'SOCIALISM'

By JACK BELL
Washington, Jan. 6 (AP)—Democratic leaders shrugged off Republican cries of "socialism" today as they opened a drive to rush the bulk of President Truman's tax-welfare-labor program through Congress.
With the idea that the first 100 days are the easiest, administration lieutenants charted swift action. They intend to have some of the wide range of White House proposals ripening into final form about the time Mr. Truman takes the oath for a full four-year term January 20.
Senator Lucas (D-Ill), the upcoming majority leader in the Senate, keynoted the hurry-up refrain.
Budget Message Monday
The Senate, Lucas said, "will proceed with all convenient speed."
Republicans saw threats of national bankruptcy in the Truman spending proposals. They blasted the President's idea for government-built steel plants as "socialism." They bemoaned his failure to ask for any savings in government costs.
The GOP will get another crack at this latter subject Monday when Mr. Truman submits to Congress a budget expected to reach $41,900,000,000 for the year beginning July 1.
The chances for passage in some form looked good for:

A tax increase, but possibly not the full $4,000,000,000 he asked (largely from big business) and in a form that may suit Congress but not be fully pleasing to the President.
Good Prospects
Taft-Hartley labor law repeal, with the modifications of the Wagner act that Mr. Truman suggested and possibly some others—including the non-Communist affidavit in some form.
Economic controls, but possibly not the standby price-wage authority or the steel-plant building power he requested.
Welfare legislation, such as aid to education, social security expansion, housing and raising of the minimum wage level. His plan for prepaid medical insurance, however, remains in the doubtful class.
Farm benefit chances, though there may be a fight over this which would cross party lines.
Reciprocal trade agreements extension.
On Doubtful List
On the "doubtful" list lawmakers were placing Mr. Truman's civil rights program, his appeal for universal military training, his proposal for federal control of the tidelands, and his request—for the fifth time, he said—for authorization of the St. Lawrence seaway.
To carry out their plans, the Democrats tightened their control over Senate committees. They already had won a battle to change House rules to ease the way for their own measures.
The Democratic majority filled the Senate labor committee with members generally classified as pro-

SALES TAX IS FAVORED BY STUDY GROUP

Harrisburg, Jan. 6 (AP)—A Republican dominated legislative tax study committee was on record today in favor of a $80,000,000 a year state-wide sales tax.
The seven-member group suggested in a report to Gov. James H. Duff and the 1949 legislature that the tax replace most of the new taxing powers granted local governments and all of those given schools districts in 1947.
It ran directly counter to a demand by Governor Duff in his message to the general assembly that the legislature keep intact the authority of local communities to tax anything not taxed by the state.
Walker Not Sold
Although there was no immediate comment from the governor on the committee's newest report, a Republican legislative leader indicated it will meet small favor among administration stalwarts.
"It may be a good program, but I haven't been sold on it," was the comment of Sen. John M. Walker (R-Allegheny) GOP Senate leader. "I think we will have problems enough without going out and looking for more."
There was also Democratic Andrews (D-Cambria) House minority leader, remained a supporter of his party's traditional stand against sales taxes and added: "The voice is the voice of the committee but it would be interesting to know the hand that did the writing."

Duff Opposes Repeal
Walker's comment came after he was informed Sen. James A. Geltz (R-Allegheny), chairman of the Senate Finance committee, said the tax study group would press for legislative action on its program in the present session.
"I will endeavor to get action if it comes before the Senate," Geltz told reporters. The committee also recommended dropping of the controversial soft drink tax first imposed two years ago.
Governor Duff, on the other hand, has called for continuation of the soft drink tax and any basic amendments to the local tax law. That measure has been described by Duff as the "high point" of the 1947 legislature.
Prehistoric man in northern Europe enjoyed oysters, as attested by mounds of oyster shells found there.

First moves disclosed by the State Department were pleas to Israel and Egypt to avoid acts which might spread the conflict. Others are expected to be made when the United Nations Security Council again tackles the Palestine issue at its scheduled Friday session in New York.
